

Searching for a Winner: Those in the Spiritual Phalanx Form a Unity with a Single Mind and Will; Review: Askesis & Genesis 14:1-15

- 37) As we grow in grace we begin to realize that our fellow believers are making these same advances and together we move forward in the double column toward that ultimate objective of spiritual maturity.
- 38) Along the way we discover that we have joined with our fellow believers in a simultaneous advance that is evolving into one unit, a spiritual phalanx, with each person possessing a single mind and will.
- 39) As you play your note and each fellow believer plays his, there develops a harmony in the body of Christ that fulfills the concept of the Spartans' exoterike harmonia.
- 40) The doctrine illustrated by the phrase exoterike harmonia is that of Unity in the Royal Family.
- 41) If we are to maximize our combat power in the Invisible War, if we are to economize our force toward the objective of spiritual maturity, and if we are to have the invisible historical impact required to restore our client nation, then we must first develop esoterike harmonia within our souls: inner harmony with God.
- 42) Secondly, we must develop exoterike harmonia with our fellow believers: outer harmony of the body of Christ.
- 43) This amounts to the development of the tandem problem-solving devices of personal love for God and unconditional love for your fellow believer into a spiritual skill.
