

Replication of Neural Networks

All seven compartments have been utilized by the Holy Spirit to catalogue the vocabulary and the frame of reference necessary to develop wheel-tracks, associations, and constellations in categorical storage and norms and standards in the conscience. From these Timothy developed both momentum and wisdom in the execution of the Christian way of life. He possessed the biblical inventory necessary to solve problems, make good decisions, and continue his spiritual growth.

The soul's point of contact with the brain's cerebral cortex is the stream of consciousness' memory center. Here the soul coordinates with the brain in establishing wheel-tracks of righteousness. Continued advance enables wheel-tracks to link up and form associations.

Additional growth enables associations to interlock with other associations to form constellations. A prolonged advance causes these constellations to facilitate into a finely-tuned neural network clicking on all eight cylinders.

At this point the believer must not fall victim to unrealistic expectations. All too often, those who make serious spiritual advance get the cockeyed notion that they are either insulated from the trials of the Devil's world or get a free ride. Cosmos diabolicus is far more sophisticated than that. One of the areas which can offer the most draconian of pressures, especially to advanced believers, is human government.

Paul was concerned that Timothy would fall victim to the intensity of the Neronian persecutions, revert to his previous carnal status, and fail in his pastoral mission. In order to ensure that Timothy does not fall victim to the SWAT team, Paul issues this imperative mood. What he actually orders Timothy to do is continue facilitating his neural network and use it as a map to lead his congregation to Santa Fé.

Paul's choice of words introduces a wonderful illustration of the relationship between the pastor's soul and those of his congregation.

The direct object of the verb is the accusative singular of the noun: hupotuposis – “An example; a standard; an outline; a formula; a category; a pattern; a mold; a die.”

“Keep on having constellations which from a categorical pattern made up of correct doctrinal standards ...”

That expanded translation will need a bit more tweaking before we're done but it contains many of the concepts we will note in our analysis.

What we are about to see is a word which is going to vector up our studies of the “Theology of Neurology,” the establishment of wheel-tracks, and the image of making the long-spiritual trek along our figurative Santa Fé Trail.

In order to make the trip successfully there must be the leadership of an expert wagon master, a pastor who has made the trip and knows how to lead others safely to the objective. In order to do so, he must have accessible to him all the necessary knowledge to lead, guide, direct and solve problems.

This brings us to a study of the etymology of the Greek noun: hupotuposis.
